In the number 17 of the magazine EP – Estudo Prévio, we open a new website, which responds to aspirations that we had for some time: a better organization, a better listening and hearing experience of its contents, and also to fulfill the items that allow us to aspire to more and better international indexes. In this issue we gather papers that are part of ongoing investigations and that allow us to know, with original contributions, several author researches, thus discovering new views on the research various.

With this issue, we also continue the editorial project, sharing new knowledge, deepened by our contributors and guests, through the written and spoken word, and also through image narratives, crossing research from different geographical locations, professional and thematic areas, promoting innovative knowledge. In this context, we publish also a visual essay and a project review.

2020 is undoubtedly a year of change, and the future is uncertain. It is, therefore, gladly and with hope that we make these changes, so that in 2021 we can celebrate the magazine's 10th anniversary with new projects. See you soon!
